Accelerating Hope
A neighborhood is born

Annual Report for Fiscal Year 2008-2009

*A Year in ReviewLetter from the Executive Director

Dear friends,

Our affiliate dreamt of building a decent neighborhood for struggling families, where children could grow up playing twilight games of kick-the-can and parents could trade household favors. As I write to you today, the streets are being paved in Habitat's Cedar Chase neighborhood. These roads will be a path to hope for 34 families moving in over the next few years.

This year our waiting list exceeded 20 families for the first time in our history. We want to greet each of these families in need with hope, and so we are accelerating the speed with which we deliver. Here is how:

- 34 home sites ready for building
- 14 homes to be built this year despite the poor economy
- More training to help families escape poverty permanently and to keep us foreclosure-free
- High expectations for ReStore, which grossed over $200,000 this year

On behalf of all our partner families, thank you for the long hours worked and the financial sacrifices made. Together, let us continue accelerating hope. There is always so much more to do!

In partnership,
Kerry

"Habitat's mission is to eliminate substandard housing. The Cedar Chase neighborhood represents a bold, visionary step toward fulfilling that mission. I am exceptionally proud to be associated with an organization whose impact is so meaningful to all who live here."

Janna Castillo

Habitat Homeowner

Each morning 13-year-old Maria Castillo guides her wheelchair down the ramp alongside her new house on her way to meet the school bus. The eighth-grader at Bachelor Middle School, who was paralyzed in a car accident last December, can manage many things on her own now that she and her mom and brother have moved into their specially designed, accessible Habitat home.

The family was already approved for a Habitat house in 2008 when the accident occurred three days before Christmas. But the accident didn't prevent the family from realizing their dream of a home of their own. "I like to say that since the accident, we can still do the same things," says Maria's mother Janna. "We just do them in different ways."

The Castillos' new home is special in many ways, Janna says: "It's the first house that my children have lived in." She remembers when her 15-year-old son Jordan was about seven, he asked her why they lived in an apartment instead of a house. She told him she had dropped out of school and didn't have a high school diploma. "He started to cry," she says, "and told me, 'Don't worry, Mommy. When I grow up, I'll buy you a house.'"

"He started to cry and told me, 'Don't worry, Mommy. When I grow up, I'll buy you a house.'"

— Janna

Janna has since earned her GED, and she's close to completing a degree at IVY Tech while also working full time as a secretary at the MCCSC School-Age Care Program. "I want to be an example for my kids," she says.

Janna says her new house, built by 200 women, is also special because it's the first house in Habitat of Monroe County's first neighborhood—Cedar Chase on Bloomington's southwest side. Janna looks out over the 33 other lots where Habitat families will live and points to a common area where residents will gather for picnics and family fun. Until then, she's enjoying her beautiful front porch, which she helped paint herself. "I could sit out here all evening," she says.

How has Habitat given

Habitat gives me something to do that I feel is helping somebody else. How much I give I don't know but I like the idea of what Habitat is doing and the people it's helping. I think I've gotten more out of it than I gave.

—Bud Lahr, Longtime crew leader

When I work on a Habitat site alongside future homeowners, I see the hope in their eyes as they help create the space where permanence is going to be possible. It is humbling to realize that when I can partner with Habitat I am helping to create the opportunity that future generations have a much greater chance of missing the detours of hopelessness, bitterness, and emptiness.

—Rob Norris, Crew leader

I turned 30 in a homeless shelter without anything and I will be spending my 35th birthday in my own home.

By showing me that doing charitable work can be fun and giving me the desire to work more with Habitat in the future. I enjoyed working on homes with the actual homeowners. I am eager to see how the plans for the entire Habitat (neighborhood) play out. I am looking forward to volunteering on this project and following its progress.

—Brad Eggiman, Build and ReStore volunteer

I believe in what the ReStore is doing and the fact that the proceeds go to support Habitat for Humanity and that one can usually get things for significantly less cost than buying new at a retailer. So I've made a practice of going to the ReStore once or twice a week. I'm always delighted when I find something I can bring home.

—Byron Bangert, ReStore shopper

you hope this year?

I always really look forward to being able to share my cooking skills with other people. It's a way I can say thank you to those on the work site and be a part of the build. I also can let the families know that there are people behind the scenes that are supporting them too.

—Cheryl Bainbridge, Food donor

This year Habitat has been a great experience for me. It allowed me to see a different side of Bloomington than just the college life. It was a fulfilling experience that gave me what I wanted out of volunteering, which was to help people in a way that mattered.

—Erin Johnson, College student

I went from homeless to homeowner in 5 years.

—Kristin Bogue, Partner family on waiting list

I'm making a small change in my part of the world. But it doesn't have to take tons of my time. I don't have to go to India—I can make an impact on the world in a justice way in my community. I feel like I'm just a little piece in justice. It's just right that people own a home and have an ability to do that.

—Rachael Norton, ReRead volunteer/coordinator

It's been neat for me to watch Habitat provide hope to partner families (by having) a mission to have affordable and energy efficient housing. It's a confirmation that both are possible. It will give (the partner families) hope because it gives them more money to use for important things, for whatever their goals are.

—Matt Fisher, Energy Star certification provider with Sherlock Homes

Everyone Wins with ReStore

With new, high-quality donations arriving each day, you can create this living room look for much less than a retail store – and help Habitat eliminate poverty housing at the same time. Check the ReStore often as treasures like these go quickly! (Photo by Jennifer Peterman)

A Banner Year for the ReStore . . .

- ReStore sponsored its first Habitat house with proceeds from sales.
- ReRead, the bookstore at ReStore, now features great books at bargain prices.
- Donation pick-up is now available with the ReStore truck, purchased with grant funding.

Groceries build homes too!

When you use a Habitat for Humanity grocery gift card, participating stores will donate 3–5% of your purchase directly to us. Call our office at (812) 331-4069 to purchase a card.

The program raised more than $2,600 this year. Thanks to our grocery card shoppers and corporate sponsors Kroger, Marsh, and Bloomingfoods.

Visit us online at www.monroecountyhabitat.org for a list of Hope Builders (gifts under $25) and in-kind gift donors.

Keep up the momentum!

Building is just one way to bring hope to families in need. You can also support Habitat for Humanity of Monroe County by:

- Shopping or donating your furniture and home building materials to the Habitat ReStore
- Inviting your church or business to sponsor a home build
- Joining the Habitat Carpenters' Club or More Than Houses Society
- Donating food for a morning snack or lunch during a Saturday build
- Putting a Habitat license plate on your car
